Customer satisfaction. The most common cause of customer dissatisfaction will be the length of time your employees remain in the Dark Ages. Every employee should be made aware of the importance of fixing the customer's problem. If you've been in business for a while, you've already seen your share of cases where the customer's problem was resolved, but the customer was still unhappy. The most common cause of this potentially fatal mistake is employees (or owners) who have allowed themselves to become isolated from the customer's concerns. It's up to you to make certain that all of your employees understand that the ultimate goal of your combined efforts is a satisfied customer, not just a sale.

8 Don't overlook your employees as a source of ideas to improve your operation.

No one is closer to your customers and their opinions than your own employees. Acknowledgment and respect from employees. Workers who are respected by their bosses contribute to the success of the business. If you...

5 Train every employee to be an important member of the Customer Satisfaction Team.

Your own understanding of the importance of customer satisfaction will be the first step if even one of your employees remains indifferent in the Dark Ages. Every employee should be made aware (and be continuously reminded) that "fixing" the customer is just as important as fixing the customer's problem. The most common cause of this potentially fatal malady is employees (or here) who have allowed themselves to become isolated from the customer's concerns. It is your ultimate goal of your combined efforts is a satisfied customer who will be the first to tell you that you have made a mistake, own up to it, and make it right.

7 Make sure that you treat the telephone as an important business tool.

Your customer experience with your store begins the exact moment that one of your employees answers the phone. Make sure that your telephone is always answered and respect the customer's time. Never allow it to ring more than three or four times. Have a customer on hold for more than a minute or two and you are likely to lose the sale. And always, ALWAYS, call the customer back when you have promised to do so. Even if you haven't been able to find all the information you need, don't leave the customer to wait for a call that never comes.

8 Don't overlook your employees as a source of ideas to improve your operation.

No one is closer to your customers and their operations than your own employees. Acknowledgment and recognition are the best ways to encourage your employees to contribute to the success of your business. If you are a small independent business, you should have a program that makes it a point to reward your employees for their contributions. If you are a large corporation, you should have a program that makes it a point to reward your employees for their contributions.
