

10oz scented candle containers glass jars feather crown shape design

Sunny Glassware is committed to exporting high-quality fragrance products to Europe and the United States. It continues to explore Chinese history and culture, and opens a window for Western countries to understand China. It is precisely against this background that the feather crown candle jars series has been successfully developed:

1. Oriental culture The rank of officials in the Qing dynasty was reflected by their wearing flower lings, which were made for peacock feathers, which was a symbol of distinguishing prestige and dignity at the time.
2. In Western culture, angels are divided into different levels according to the number of wings. People will also express someone's achievement or honor through the feathers inserted on their hats.

The development of the Feather Crown Fragrant candles jars series adheres to the common ground of Chinese and Western cultures, expresses this beauty with the crystal-clear characteristics of glass, combines Eastern and Western cultures to provide the source of power for product development, and also brings us power to spread the beauty of the East. This design uses the unique texture of bird feathers to illustrate the design concept. The staggered arrangement presents the beauty of rhythm, and can also reflect the unique temperament of the glass material. The exterior is frosted to give the glass a sense of space and the same is frosted. Increase the feel and friction, not easy to fall. Equipped with silver plating on the inner wall of the glass, it expresses the beauty of the mirror reflection of the glass. When the candle is lit, it produces reflection and mapping effects, which increase the taste and appreciation of the product.
